In 2019, we celebrated our 25th anniversary milestone. It was a wonderful time to reflect on the impact of our program with partners, clients, staff and community at our Accion-iversary celebration. Consistent with our organization’s culture, more than 25 Accion-funded businesses created a mini-farmers market where attendees could shop, interact with borrowers and hear as well as view impactful stories that showcase the power of Accion’s mission.

It’s exciting to highlight another year of growth, with 252 loans providing almost $4.8 million to small businesses. Our active portfolio grew to $8.4 million, with 93% of our borrowers qualifying as low-to-moderate income or minority-owned.

One of those borrowers is Maya Madsen from Maya’s Cookies, who ships product nationwide in addition to selling at farmers markets throughout San Diego and various local coffee shops.

Maya chronicled her Accion experience as follows: “Funding from Accion was exactly what I needed to take my business to the next level. It allowed me to move from a shared kitchen to my own facility, which enabled me to increase revenues and production by more than 300% and hire eight employees. I love being able to share my passion for quality vegan goods and delicious treats through my business.”

Since 1994, Accion has helped shape the small business landscape in Southern California with access to capital and business support services. We’ve empowered home-based and main street businesses to create vibrant communities. We’ve helped educate entrepreneurs to set them up for future success, and we’ve collaborated with other mission-based lenders to advocate for responsible lending and borrowers’ rights.

Thank you to those of you who’ve championed our vision and mission for the past 25 years, including our dedicated staff, board, community partners and funders. Our team is proud to present our 2019 annual report, celebrating 25 years of impact! Please enjoy reading about the entrepreneurial spirit which fuels the mission of all of our Accion-istas!

Sincerely,

Gordon Boerner
Board Chair

Accion in Southern California is the only San Diego-based organization to win this award in 2019. The organization has won the award 9 times since 1998, receiving a combined nearly $7 million in federal funding.

It also included the Accion Academy for Entrepreneurial Success, a 10-week series of practical, hands-on training accompanied by one-on-one business counseling to empower individuals to become entrepreneurs and create jobs. Accion Selected for $300,000 Grant from Wells Fargo to Spark Small Business Growth
Accion was chosen for a $300,000 grant from Wells Fargo to focus on expanding access to capital for Hispanic, African American and other diverse small business owners. The grant is part of the Wells Fargo Works For Small Business®: Diverse Community Capital (DCC) program, which offers capital and technical assistance to minority-owned small businesses to create local jobs and strengthen neighborhoods. To honor the occasion, Wells Fargo and Accion hosted an open house event at Accion-funded business Cali Coast Barber Shop in Lemon Grove on Oct. 28. Wells Fargo representatives, Accion staff and clients, community leaders and local elected officials gathered for a community conversation to discuss the importance of investing in diverse small businesses. The event included catering from Tamales Jovita, another Accion-funded business that has benefitted from Wells Fargo’s support through this grant.

Accion celebrated the historical milestone of 25 years of serving small business owners on October 3, 2019, at its 25th Accion-iversary party at the Sempra Energy headquarters in downtown San Diego. With over 220 friends and supporters in attendance, this client-centric celebration showcased more than 25 Accion-funded businesses and highlighted the Entrepreneur of the Year awardees, Luna Norte and Calexico Brewing Company.

The event was hosted by KUSI-TV’s Allie Wagner, who also received an award for the station’s longstanding commitment to spotlighting Accion-funded businesses on a monthly basis on Good Morning San Diego. From the food and drink vendors to the lively entertainment provided, Accion small business clients played a central role in the celebration and illustrated firsthand the work of the organization. The event raised more than $110K through sponsorships and donations, which will go to support the growth of the program.
Imagine biting into the perfect chocolate chip cookie – crispy on the outside and chewy in the center – and then imagine your surprise when baker Maya Madsen tells you that cookie is 100% vegan. With a variety of flavors, like limoncello shortbread, s’mores, and her best-seller marble fudge, Maya’s Cookies delights customers with her use of plant-based, dairy-free and cruelty-free ingredients.

As a health-conscious mother of three, Maya wanted to translate her vegan lifestyle into a dessert that was kid-friendly and delicious. After developing her cookie recipe, Maya’s treats became incredibly popular among the students at her children’s schools, where she would bake her confections for birthdays and other special events.

With encouragement from family and friends, Maya was ready to start her own business. She started small by selling at a few local farmers markets in San Diego, where she met an Accion business development officer doing outreach. Maya was ready to expand her business and she received a $5,000 loan to purchase equipment, obtain permits and buy supplies so that she could increase production and open her online store.

Since receiving her loan in 2017, Maya’s business has taken off. She moved from a shared kitchen to her own facility, which enabled her to increase revenues and production by 300%. Through her expansion, Maya created eight jobs through office support and the production line. Maya’s Cookies ships nationwide and are sold throughout San Diego at farmers markets and in various coffee and dessert shops.

Malte Niebelschuetz has always been passionate about the environment and the animals that inhabit our planet. In order to play an even larger role in our planet’s future, Malte quit his corporate job in Germany and moved to San Diego in 2011 to establish his social impact business, Shore Buddies. By recycling water bottles that would typically make their way into our oceans, Shore Buddies transforms the plastic into fluffy stuffing which goes into one of four stuffed animal toys: a seal, seagull, sea turtle and dolphin. Each animal carries its own educational story of how pollution has affected its life and what can be done to help. Malte uses the stories of these stuffed animals to educate children about the impact of single-use plastic on marine life and promote recycling.

Malte first came to Accion in 2015 for a loan to purchase more inventory to meet demand, and as his business continued to grow in late 2018, he received more capital to cover his increasing shipping needs.

By 2019, Shore Buddies has kept over 300,000 bottles from entering the environment and ocean. In addition to the animals, Shore Buddies also published an educational children’s book called Shore Buddies and the Plastic Ocean and offers a variety of sustainable products for children such as reusable straws on their website. A portion of the proceeds of Malte’s business goes to a variety of ocean-saving organizations, such as The Marine Mammal Center, the Sea Turtle Care Center and Ocean Connectors.

“Funding from Accion was exactly what I needed to continue to share my passion for quality vegan goods and delicious treats!”

“Accion’s passion for their clients has allowed me to spread my own passion for conservationism.”

“Achilles Murray has always had a love for food and the joy it brings to others. He closely observed the pitmasters at family barbecues and the line cooks during his time in the U.S. Marines. While he was stationed in Okinawa, Japan, he started perfecting his barbecue sauce recipe with his wife, Aubry. After experimenting with different flavors, they finally came up with a sauce of their own, which received rave reviews from his company commander and staff.

When Achilles retired from military service in 2014, he focused on his sauce business, Wacheur 6 LLC, full-time. He started with one brand, J&T’s Homemade Bar-B-Que Sauce, and then expanded his product line to three sauce flavors. This growth came with new expenses including production on the initial orders, as well as new branding and labeling costs. That’s when Achilles came to Accion to access capital to expand his line.

Currently, Achilles sells online nationally and at local farmers markets in the Inland Empire.

“Accion’s passion for their clients has allowed me to share my own passion for conservationism.”

“Thanks to Accion believing in me, I was able to grow my business and sustain jobs for my wife and I after I retired from military service.”
Marylee McIntyre grew up in Michigan learning to cook with her mother and grandmother, both talented home chefs. From gathering fruit at local orchards to annual Christmas cookie baking, these traditions grew Boo’s love for fresh food, delicious pastries and desserts.

When Boo’s career in the finance industry in Detroit ended, she found her way to Joshua Tree in the high desert. Unable to find work in her field, she decided to pursue her lifelong dream of baking and began selling her artisan pastries by opening her own business, Boo’s Organic Oven. In 2019, she opened a brick-and-mortar shop which quickly became popular with locals and tourists alike. Known for her traditional family recipes, organic, vegan and gluten-free options, Boo’s treats were an instant hit. In need of new equipment to meet demand, Boo came to Accion in September. With a loan from Accion, Boo purchased new equipment and expanded her production, maintaining 10 jobs within the community.

“The capital support from Accion allowed me to meet the growing demand of my new business. I love being able to honor the generational traditions that are the foundation of my bakery.”

Sylvia Marisol Lopez

Sylvia has always dreamed of sharing her love and passion for music with children. She began looking for a way to teach music while spending quality time with her own young daughters. She started small by hosting music and movement classes for children under five in local community centers.

As attendance at her classes grew, Sylvia had the idea to open her school, MAS (Music And Spanish) Academy, but she lacked the funding to get started. When she met her local Accion business development officer at a business fair, she knew it was the solution she needed.

She received a loan to purchase furniture and classroom equipment for her new space. In only two years, she has grown her business to teaching 35-50 students per week and offering nine different classes, including Spanish immersion, Mommy and Me in English and Spanish, and free play. The mission of her school is to offer an enriching and comfortable environment for students to immerse themselves in the power of music and language.

In the coming years, Sylvia hopes to continue to expand her business to an even larger play space. She envisions a location where kids can come for events such as birthday parties and educational activities with different themed areas, a jungle gym and music circles.

“The musical bond I have with my children is what drives me to introduce music to other young children and their families. To be able to provide a safe and comfortable space for children and their parents to spend quality time together is one of my greatest accomplishments.”
